ESL's possessive pronoun and adjective activitiesPossessive Adjectives ESL Activities and GamesAre are you ready to get into the best possessive games and activities for English learners? You can check them out right here.#1: Is that true? Make up several cards with possessive adjectives, nouns and predicates. Then, put the students in groups of four and they have to organize the cards to make as many true suggestions as possible by at least one of the members of their group. At the end of the allotted time, the team with the most true suggestions is winner.#2: Same or DifferentPut students in pairs and give them a theme. For example, hobbies, food or family. Then instruct them to find out three of the same things and three different things. For example, if you use the family as a theme: Same (1 brother, lives with 4 people, has a cat)Different (has a dog/no dog, 4 live grandparents / 3, likes to play sports / likes to watch TV)Then, each group should make a short presentation for the rest of the class, using as much possessive as possible. For example: Our families have 4 people living with us and include 1 brother. There is also one cat in our families. His family has a dog, but I don't have one. My family includes 4 living grandparents, but he only had 3. the family loves to play sports, but its likeable to watch TV.#3: Possessive VideosOne of the ways that I like to spice things up a bit in my TEFL classes is to use video. There are only so many good ones! In some cases, by explaining to my students about the possessive pronouns, I will put on a short video that makes it even better. Or, I can have students watch videos to select all the possessive examples that they hear. Either way, just be sure to develop some challenging activities to use along with the video. Here are the best ideas for this: Using ESL/EFL Videos in class.#4: Proof of Reading and Editing (Focus on Possessives) One of the activities that I would do with this grammar point is to get my students to do some proof of reading and editing. I'm preparing a short passage with a lot of errors related to possessive pronouns and adjectives. Of course, some cases of this are true! Then, students have to go through the aisle to find the bugs and finally compare to the bug free version. This makes an excellent review activity for the end of the class, like homework, or for a review at the beginning of the next class. Find out more about this here: ESL Proof reading Activity.#5: Flashcard Offers In our opinion, flash cards are one of the most versatile tools for learning English, but they are also used for any reason. They are definitely perfect for beginners and there are a ton of activities that you can do with them. In this case, the very simple thing you can do is show the card to the student and get them to make an offer with a possessive. For example: Bag (his bag is blue.) T-shirt (her T-shirt is green). Pencil (I have 3 pencils in my pencil case).#6: TutorialHave Dialogue have you ever noticed that when students read a passage in ESL textbooks, do they just pretend to do it thoughtlessly? And, of course, it's not really their fault. It's just that they really don't have a reason to read carefully. Instead, try to take out the possessive so that students will have trouble reading as well as dealing with meaning. It's a simple trick, but it's kind of a game-change in terms of learning. Find out more about this here: Dialogue Replacement ESL Reading Activity.#7: Clothing-up and obsessedIf you find a unit on possessive adjectives or adjectives in esl tutorials, it's often combined with clothing. There are only so many opportunities for suggestions students can make. For example: Whose shirt is this? It's mine. His pants are green. Its blue. If you want to see some of our best recommendations for activities you can use for this unit, be sure to check out the following: ESL Clothing Games and Activities.#8: Obsessed Songs and ChantsI'm all about using fun English songs for kids to teach things like possessive adjectives. Here's just one example of a fun song you can play for your students: #9 Give me something! Put the students in groups of 4 and each of them secretly collect 2 personal items from their pencil bag It can be an eraser, a key, etc. then put all the items in the center of the table. Students can take turns asking each other: Is this your pencil? No, it's not mine. I think it's his. And so on and so forth until all object owners are identified.#10: English Grammar ActivitiesESL is possessively simple, but they have a few grammar rules that students will need to master to become experienced in them. The best way to help our students with new grammar is to introduce different practice opportunities. After all, just by practicing the language, you become experienced.
